

ThomBal/Shutterstock.com

3 minute read

Record 2026 German curtailments to boost battery build – analysts

(Montel) Germany is forecast to see record high commercial green curtailment this year – jumping 10% from 2025 – to 2 TWh, providing a clear incentive for battery storage, according to a Montel Analytics report.

Writing by: Katharina Johannsen, Sophie Tetrel, Rodrigo de Miguel, Gabriel Power
27 Jul 2026 | 09:01

Share: Facebook Twitter LinkedIn WhatsApp Email

Want to keep reading? Register for free.
Understand the impact behind the headlines with
Montel's industry-leading energy news coverage.
Sign up to access:

- ✓ Unrivalled insights from Europe's largest team of 50 dedicated energy journalists.
- ✓ A curated daily selection of the top energy reports in seven languages from our network of European news desks.

Create Account

Log in

Column of the Week

Changing times: when markets meet physics

Vincent Thevenin
GERMAN SHORT-TERM MARKET EXPERT AT MONTEL ENAPPSYS

Long Read

Is Spain setting the tempo for the EU’s energy transition?

FOLLOW US

- X
- LinkedIn
- Bluesky
- Newsletter

ABOUT US

- Contact us
- Advertise with Montel
- Privacy Policy
- Terms of Use
- Editorial complaints process
- Montel

LOGIN

Montel Online